

Paragraph Writing Worksheet

1. My Best Friend

My best friend is Ananya, and we have known each other since our nursery days. She sits next to me in class and we walk home together every evening. Ananya is cheerful, honest, and always ready to help others. Whenever I feel low, she cheers me up with her funny jokes. We enjoy reading story books and playing badminton in our free time. She never hides anything from me and always speaks the truth, even when it is difficult. I feel lucky to have a friend like her because true friends are hard to find. I hope our friendship stays strong forever.

2. My Favourite Teacher

My favourite teacher is Mrs. Sharma, who teaches us English. She has a warm smile and explains every lesson with great patience. Whenever we do not understand something, she repeats it in a simpler way until everyone is clear. She also tells us interesting stories that make learning enjoyable rather than boring. Besides teaching, she encourages us to read good books and take part in debates and quizzes. She never scolds us harshly; instead, she guides us with kindness. Mrs. Sharma has taught me that a good teacher does not just give knowledge but also builds confidence and character in students.

3. My School

My school, Delhi Public Academy, is located in a quiet and green part of the city. It has spacious classrooms, a big playground, a well-stocked library and a modern science laboratory. My school believes in the overall development of students, so along with studies, we also take part in sports, music and art classes. The teachers are friendly and always encourage us to ask questions. Every morning, we begin the day with a prayer and yoga session, which keeps us fresh and active. I love my school because it feels like a second home where I learn, play and grow every day.

4. My Pet Dog

I have a pet dog named Bruno, who is a golden retriever with soft, fluffy fur and big brown eyes. We brought him home when he was just two months old, and now he is a part of our family. Bruno loves to play with his ball in the garden and goes for a walk with me every evening. He is very loyal and always waits for me at the gate when I return from school. At night, he sleeps near my bed and guards our house. Taking care of Bruno has taught me responsibility, patience and the true meaning of unconditional love.

5. A Rainy Day

Last Sunday, dark clouds covered the sky since early morning, and soon it began to rain heavily. The air turned cool and the dry earth gave out a pleasant, fresh smell. I watched the raindrops fall on the window and splash on the road outside. Since we could not go out to play, my sister and I decided to make paper boats and sail them in the water flowing along the street. In the evening, my mother made hot pakoras and tea, which tasted wonderful in the cold weather. Though the rain kept us indoors, it turned out to be a fun and memorable day.

6. My Mother

My mother is the most important person in my life. She wakes up early every day to prepare breakfast and get me ready for school. She works hard to manage the entire household, yet she always finds time to help me with my studies. My mother is kind, patient and full of love, but she is also strict when it comes to discipline and good habits. She teaches me to be honest, respectful and hardworking. Whenever I am sad or unwell, she takes care of me with great affection. I am truly grateful to have such a loving and caring mother.

7. An Ideal Student

An ideal student is one who balances studies with good habits and values. Such a student is regular, punctual and attentive in class, and completes homework on time without being reminded. An ideal student respects teachers and elders, and is polite and helpful towards classmates. Along with academics, they also take interest in sports, arts and other activities that build overall personality. They know how to manage time well between studies and play. Honesty and discipline are the most important qualities of an ideal student. By following these habits, a student can achieve success and become a responsible citizen in future.

8. Importance of Trees

Trees are one of the greatest gifts of nature to mankind. They give us oxygen to breathe and absorb the harmful carbon dioxide from the air, keeping our environment clean. Trees provide us with fruits, wood, medicines and shelter for countless birds and animals. Their roots hold the soil together and prevent floods and soil erosion. Trees also give cool shade during hot summer days and add to the beauty of our surroundings. Sadly, many trees are being cut down for construction and other purposes. We must plant more trees and protect the existing ones, because a green earth means a healthy future for all of us.

9. My Hobby

My favourite hobby is painting. Whenever I get free time after school, I pick up my colours and brushes and start creating something new on paper. I enjoy painting nature scenes, animals and cartoon characters the most. My hobby helps me relax after a tiring day and allows me to express my imagination freely. I have won two prizes in painting competitions held at school, which makes me even more confident. My parents always encourage me to practise and improve my skills. I believe every child should have a hobby, as it not only brings joy but also helps in developing creativity and patience.

10. Republic Day

Republic Day is celebrated every year on 26th January to mark the day when the Constitution of India came into effect in 1950. On this day, a grand parade is held in New Delhi, showcasing India's culture, military strength and achievements. The President of India hoists the national flag and takes the salute at the parade. Schools across the country celebrate the day with flag hoisting, patriotic songs and speeches about our freedom fighters. In my school too, we take part in a special assembly and cultural programme. Republic Day fills every citizen with pride and reminds us of the importance of our democratic values.

11. A Visit to the Zoo

Last month, my family and I visited the National Zoological Park with great excitement. As soon as we entered, we saw colourful birds chirping in a large enclosure. We then walked towards the lion's cage, where a huge lion was resting lazily under a tree. The playful monkeys swinging from branch to branch amused us the most. We also saw giraffes, elephants, zebras and a beautiful white tiger. The zookeeper shared interesting facts about each animal, which helped me learn a lot about wildlife. By the end of the day, I was tired but extremely happy, as it was a truly memorable experience.

12. My Favourite Game

My favourite game is badminton. I play it every evening in the park near my house with my friends. The game requires a racquet and a shuttlecock, and two or four players can play it together. Badminton demands quick reflexes, sharp focus and good hand-eye coordination, which makes it both challenging and exciting. I like this game because it keeps me physically fit and active while also being great fun. Playing badminton regularly has improved my stamina and concentration. My father often joins me on weekends, and those matches are the most enjoyable part of my week.

13. Cleanliness is Godliness

The saying 'Cleanliness is Godliness' means that keeping ourselves and our surroundings clean is as important as any religious duty. A clean environment keeps diseases away and helps us stay healthy and happy. We should form the habit of washing our hands before meals, keeping our classrooms tidy and throwing waste only in dustbins. Cleanliness is not just about our homes but also about public places like parks, roads and rivers. The Swachh Bharat Abhiyan launched in India encourages every citizen to take responsibility for cleanliness. If each one of us keeps our surroundings clean, our country will become a healthier and more beautiful place to live in.

14. A Memorable Picnic

Last winter, my class went on a picnic to Lodhi Garden along with our teachers. We started early in the morning in a school bus, singing songs throughout the journey. Once we reached, we spread mats under a large tree and enjoyed a delicious breakfast together. Later, we played games like tug of war and musical chairs, which were extremely fun. Some of my friends and I also explored the beautiful monuments in the garden and clicked many photographs. In the afternoon, we had a tasty lunch prepared by our mothers. The picnic ended with a short rest under the shade before we returned home, tired but joyful.

15. My Favourite Season

Winter is my favourite season of the year. I enjoy the cool breeze, the misty mornings and the warmth of sunlight in the afternoon. During winter, my family sits together in the courtyard, eating roasted peanuts and sharing stories, which I look forward to every year. I also love wearing colourful sweaters and cosy jackets during this season. Winter brings festivals like Christmas and New Year, filling the atmosphere with joy and celebration. Unlike the scorching heat of summer, winter allows me to play outdoor games comfortably throughout the day. For all these reasons, winter remains the season I enjoy the most.

16. Kindness to Animals

Animals cannot speak for themselves, so it becomes our duty to treat them with kindness and care. We should never hurt or trouble stray animals like dogs and cats, and instead offer them food and water whenever possible. Keeping pets happy by feeding them on time and giving them love is another way of showing kindness. During harsh summers or winters, we can leave water bowls or warm shelters outside our homes for animals in need. Being cruel to animals is not only wrong but also against the laws of our country. When we show compassion towards animals, we make our world a kinder and more caring place for every living being.

17. Road Safety Rules

Road safety rules are extremely important as they help prevent accidents and save lives. We should always walk on the footpath and use the zebra crossing while crossing the road. Before crossing, it is important to look both left and right to check for oncoming vehicles. While travelling in a car, wearing a seatbelt is a must, and two-wheeler riders should always wear a helmet. Traffic signals and signs must be followed strictly, whether we are pedestrians, cyclists or drivers. Using mobile phones while driving or crossing the road can be extremely dangerous. If everyone follows these simple road safety rules, we can make our roads much safer for all.

18. Importance of Games and Sports

Games and sports play a vital role in the overall development of a student. They keep our body fit and active, improving strength, stamina and flexibility. Along with physical benefits, sports also teach important life skills such as teamwork, discipline, patience and leadership. Playing games regularly helps in reducing stress and improving concentration, which in turn benefits our studies. Sports also teach us how to accept both victory and defeat gracefully. Schools should encourage students to take part in at least one game or sport daily. A healthy body truly leads to a healthy and sharper mind, making games and sports an essential part of school life.

19. My Daily Routine

I wake up early at six o'clock every morning and begin my day with a short exercise session. After freshening up, I get ready and have breakfast before leaving for school at seven-thirty. My school hours are filled with different subjects, activities and time spent with friends. In the evening, I play outdoor games for about an hour to stay fit and refreshed. After that, I complete my homework and revise my lessons for a couple of hours. I have dinner with my family, where we share our day's experiences. Finally, I read a story book for a while before going to sleep by nine-thirty.

20. Uses of Computer

Computers have become an essential part of our daily lives. In schools, computers help students learn through interesting videos, presentations and online resources, making lessons easier to understand. Offices use computers to store important data, prepare documents and communicate through emails quickly. Computers are also widely used in hospitals, banks, railways and shops to manage records and provide faster services. Besides work, computers allow us to connect with friends and family through video calls, no matter how far they are. However, it is important to use computers wisely and not spend too much time on games or the internet. Used correctly, computers make our lives simpler and more efficient.

21. A Memorable Journey by Train

Last summer, my family travelled from Delhi to Jaipur by train, and it turned out to be a truly memorable journey. As the train moved out of the station, I watched the fields, rivers and small villages passing by the window. We played card games and shared snacks throughout the journey, which made the time pass quickly. At one station, we bought hot samosas and tea from a vendor, which added to the fun. I also made friends with a boy of my age who was travelling in the next seat. The train journey taught me that sometimes the journey itself can be as enjoyable as the destination.

22. Save Water, Save Life

Water is one of the most precious resources on earth, and life would be impossible without it. However, many people waste water carelessly while brushing their teeth, washing clothes or watering plants. As fresh water is limited and many parts of the world already face water shortage, it is our duty to use it wisely. We can save water by fixing leaking taps, turning off the tap while brushing, and reusing water wherever possible. Rainwater harvesting is another effective method to conserve water for future use. If every person makes a small effort to save water, we can ensure that this precious resource remains available for the coming generations.

23. Independence Day Celebration

Independence Day is celebrated every year on 15th August to mark the day India got freedom from British rule in 1947. In my school, the celebration begins with the hoisting of the national flag by the principal, followed by the national anthem sung by all the students. Cultural programmes such as patriotic songs, dance performances and short speeches about freedom fighters are presented by students. Sweets are distributed to everyone at the end of the programme. The entire school is decorated with tricolour flags and balloons, creating a festive atmosphere. This day fills us with a deep sense of pride and gratitude towards our great nation.

24. My Favourite Book

My favourite book is 'The Jungle Book' by Rudyard Kipling. It tells the story of Mowgli, a boy who is raised by a pack of wolves in the jungle and becomes friends with animals like Baloo the bear and Bagheera the panther. The book is full of exciting adventures and important lessons about friendship, courage and respect for nature. I like this book because it shows how humans and animals can share a bond of trust and love. Reading it made me imagine the beauty of the jungle and its creatures vividly. This book has taught me that kindness and bravery can overcome even the greatest dangers.

25. Discipline in Life

Discipline means following certain rules and habits in an organised and consistent manner. It plays a very important role in a student's life, as it helps in managing time effectively between studies, play and rest. A disciplined student wakes up early, completes homework on time and follows a fixed routine every day. Discipline also teaches us to respect elders, follow rules at school and behave responsibly in public places. Without discipline, even the most talented person can fail to achieve their goals due to a lack of focus and consistency. By practising discipline from a young age, students can build strong character and achieve success in every field of life.
